

Brand new parent forum

For all Eden Academy parents
Spring Term 2017

Educate, Develop, Enrich, Nurture

Supporting young people with learning difficulties and complex needs

Dear Parents

I am writing to you today to tell you about a brand new area of support on our Eden Academy website called the Parent Forum.

We know that although all of your children are different, parents often have similar concerns, questions or needs for support. So, we have decided to launch an online Parent Forum to give you all the opportunity to pose questions on specific topics to experts in the field, as well as to give you access to lists of helpful organisations, resources and venues to support you outside of school.

Our Parent Forum will:

- ✓ provide you with information, guidance and support on various topics that are specific to you, as parents of children and young people with special needs
- ✓ focus on a different topic every term, the first being Toileting
- ✓ contain links to helpful organisations and resources for all our catchment areas
- ✓ always be accessible on the Eden Academy website – www.theedenacademy.co.uk – or via a link on your school's website/Fronter, and will contain previous terms' topics

So please email us with any questions that you would like answered regarding our first topic 'Toileting' by Friday 10th February at familyservices@theedenacademy.co.uk. We will post helpful answers covering parents' concerns, offering expert advice and resources in March.

Your feedback will be really important to us, and ideas for future topics will be collated at various family services events like Coffee Mornings, or you can email us at any time.
